Our summary

The state agriculture department is offering competitive grants to fund transportation and related costs that bring youth groups to county and local fairs during the 2027 season. The aim is to raise youth attendance and deepen young people's understanding of New York agriculture and domestic arts. Eligible projects must include a visit to a listed fair and provide agricultural education, with allowable spending covering transport, fair entry, lunches, educational programming, staff training and marketing tied to the program. Rides may cover no more than half the budget unless included in admission. Applicants may request up to 25,000 dollars and may submit only one application, drawing from a total pool of 475,000 dollars. Proposals must be filed through the state's Statewide Financial System grants portal, and not-for-profit applicants must be prequalified there by the deadline. Responses to fifteen applicant questions, a work plan with performance measures and a budget with narrative are required, with text answers capped at 2,000 characters. Costs must fall on or after February 15, 2027, and the...
